

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In one embodiment, a magnetron sputtering apparatus forms a closed plasma loop and an open plasma loop within the closed plasma loop. The open plasma loop allows for relatively uniform erosion on the face of a target by broadening the sputtered area of the target. The open plasma loop may be formed and swirled using a rotating magnetic array to average the target erosion.

5